NORTHERN BEACHES NEWS

A MESSAGE FROM THE ADMINISTRATOR

This week I had the pleasure of hosting a Northern Beaches Council breakfast to celebrate International Women's Day, with over 200 guests attending.

We listened to an inspiring talk from Ms Josephine Cashman, a young indigenous woman who spoke passionately about the need to overcome the disadvantage of indigenous women in remote communities.

In welcoming everyone I took the opportunity to pick up on the key International Women's Day message from our Governor General, His Excellency, The Hon David Hurley AC DSC (retired).

"Nominate more women for awards in our honours system".

After he made the call I checked the figures for the last awards on Australia Day and they revealed that men were awarded Orders of Australia at almost twice the rate as women (475 to 252). This was not really a surprise because it has been openly discussed in the media for many years.

The big surprise was discovering that women received less than a third of the nominations (252 to 651).

Sometimes individuals feel a bit powerless when trying to do something about significant problems like climate change or the plight of indigenous women in remote communities, but improving the representation of women in our Australian Honours system is something individuals can do something about. Just take a few hours to nominate someone who you know makes a real difference in the community through their outstanding community service.

To find out more about making a nomination just go to the website at www.gg.gov.au/australian-honours-and-awards or phone (02)6283 3533.

While on the topic of outstanding women, I attended two farewells this week for two senior women who are retiring after decades of service to their community. Both featured in Wednesday's Manly Daily.

Beth Lawsen retired as one of Northern Beaches Council's Deputy General Managers. Beth had been at Manly Council since 1990 becoming one of their Deputy General Managers in 2012. Beth managed to win and maintain the respect of everyone she dealt with. Her focus was always on achieving the best possible outcomes for those doing it tough or for the community as a whole.

Also, Jacqui Smith retired as the Manager of the Manly Community Centre after 32 years of 'coalface' work with homeless people and others in great distress.

On behalf of the whole community, thank you both for your great public service.

COUNCIL NOTICES

BOAT STORAGE AT NARRABEEN LAGOON

Council will be building secure boat storage facilities around Narrabeen Lagoon to address overcrowding, dumping, damage to sensitive foreshore vegetation and safety issues.

Boat owners will need to buy a yearly permit sticker to guarantee them an allocated storage space.

Once the storage racks are operating, boats without permit stickers will not be allowed to be left along the Narrabeen foreshore.

If you are interested in securing a place please contact Northern Beaches Council on 9970 1111, fill in the expression of interest form on the website or email watercraft@northernbeaches.nsw.gov.au.
