DEFINITIONS

Advertising means a display by the use of symbols, messages or other devices for promotional purposes or for conveying information, instructions, directions or the like, whether or not the display includes the erection of a structure or the carrying out of a work.

Community facility means a building or place that accommodates publicly-accessible community, social, recreational, cultural or civic activities and services"; and where activities may be provided by a range of organisations including government agencies, charitable institutions, non profit associations or commercial operators. Use of the building is generally limited to casual bookings or yearly hiring agreements. In specific instances leases or licences may be granted subject to the use being consistent with the community land categorisation and compliance with relevant statutory requirements.

Extractive industries means (a) the winning of extractive material; or (b) an undertaking, not being amine, which depends for its operations on the winning of extractive material from the land upon which it is carried out, and includes any washing, crushing, grinding, milling or separating into different sizes of that extractive material on that land.

Extractive materials means sand, gravel, clay, turf, soil, rock, stone or similar substances.

Recreation area means an area used to provide facilities for recreational activities which promote physical, cultural or intellectual welfare of persons within the community, being facilities provided by:

- (i) the council; or
- (ii) a body of persons associated for the purposes of the physical, cultural or intellectual welfare of persons within the community, but does not include a racecourse or a showground

Refreshment room means a restaurant, café, tearoom, eating house or the like.

Utility installation means a building or work used by a public utility undertaking but does not include a building designed wholly or principally as administrative or business premises or as a showroom.
