

A message from the Mayor

Rowland Reserve in Bayview is the place to be on Sunday morning when Canine Connect comes to the Northern Beaches.

German shepherds, cocker spaniels, poodles or bulldogs – dogs of all ages, shapes and sizes are welcome and renowned dog trainer Steve Austin will be on hand to answer any questions.

For a bit of fun, a 'best dressed' competition will start at 9.20am, followed by a 'look-alike' competition just after 11am.

Elsewhere, the Gai-mariagal Festival continues this weekend with events across the Northern Sydney area. Starting late last month to coincide with Sorry Day, the festival aims to raise awareness of, and celebrate, our local Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

Look out for the final two Weaving Bridges workshops with Elders of the Northern Beaches Aboriginal community – a great opportunity to learn new skills, make new connections and contribute towards a series of public artworks.

On Wednesday night, media personality Gus Worland will host a Big Ideas Forum at Glen Street Theatre. The focus is on mental health, with open conversations on the discussions we should be having. Tickets are $10 per person.

Next Saturday 22 June, Council will also host another 'Human Book' event at Warringah Mall Library. Launched successfully last year, the concept sees willing participants go 'on loan' to the public for 20 minutes at a time to share stories about overcoming challenges, stereotypes, prejudice and discrimination they have experienced in their lives.

Coinciding with Refugee Week, we are lucky enough to have a number of refugees who have agreed to share their unique stories and perspectives. I encourage you to come along.

And last call for those who'd like to help shape the future of the Northern Beaches by being part of the Youth Advisory Committee. We're looking for enthusiastic 12 to 21 year olds who would like to get involved – learn a lot, have a voice and get free entry to some youth events! Nominations close tomorrow.

Have a great weekend.
